Bio:

With top agency and management relationships, Adrienne Stern is known for working closely with Directors and Producers to secure the types of casts that open doors to major film festivals and distribution packages. Her films have premiered at Sundance, Toronto, Cannes, Tribeca, Berlin, South by Southwest, Seattle and many other prominent film festivals, many taking home prestigious awards.

Past films which have premiered at The Sundance Film Festival include Broken English (directed by Zoe Cassavetes, starring Parker Posey and Drea de Matteo), Adrift in Manhattan (directed by Alfredo De Villa, starring Heather Graham, Victor Rasuk, William Baldwin, and Dominic Chianese), The Immaculate Conception of Little Dizzle (starring Natasha Lyonne, Marshall Allman, Tania Raymonde and Vince Vieluf), Girlstown (starring Lili Taylor), The Believer (starring Ryan Gosling), Thirteen Conversations About One Thing (starring Matthew McConaughey and John Turturro), Online, Bleach, and This Revolution.

Adrienne's television credits include the New York casting for That 70's Show, where she was responsible for casting Ashton Kutcher, and most recently Welcome to Greenpoint for FX.

Ms. Stern has also worked on various commercials, including the Dove Real Beauty Campaign.

She is currently working with Circle of Confusion casting Hellbenders, written and to be directed by JT Petty. Also slated for 2011 is Shoedog written by George Pelecanos and to be directed by John McNaughton, starring Sean P. Diddy Combs, Wes Bentley, Heather Graham, Sam Shepard and Kris Kristofferson, and A Wake Up Call starring Mira Sorvino, Ashanti and Dan Hedaya.
